The apples fall not far from the tree

Under an old apple tree in Greenwood, a small group of deer face into Sunday afternoon's blustery wind and fading light. It is very common for antlerless deer to congregate in groups of related individuals, according to Deer Biologist Lee Kantar, of the Maine Department of Inland Fisheries and Wildlife. "This group appears to be made up of a mature female with a fawn and two other females that may be yearlings (her fawns from the previous year)," Kantar said. "Typically in August (or sometimes earlier) the adult doe and her fawn(s) will be joined by her surviving offspring from the previous year and spend time together foraging, bedding, etc. The adult has a high level of tolerance for her female offspring, who typically take up home ranges adjacent to and overlapping hers."

Smith fined, banned for life from owning more farm animals

By ALISON ALOISIO

Larry Smith of Bethel, who was found guilty last month of cruelty to animals, may keep possession of three Percheron horses, Judge John McElwee ruled Monday in South Paris District Court.

But Smith otherwise faces a lifetime ban on ownership of animals, except for household pets. He must also give up his current ownership of a mare and foal, and sell a stallion.

In return for giving up the mare and foal to the Maine State Society for the Protection of Animals, Smith will be forgiven $11,545 in care costs incurred by the society for the mare and foal.

McElwee also gave Smith a suspended 90-day jail sentence and a year of administrative release.

He was fined $1,250 for the one civil ($500) and three criminal ($250 each) charges on which he was found guilty.

But gets to keep three Percherons, which will be monitored by a veterinarian.

In September, Smith was found guilty on the criminal charges of failing to protect a cow and calf from the heat, and of depriving them of clean conditions by keeping them in a trailer for two weeks in the summer; depriving two horses of clean conditions; and depriving a Belgian mare and her foal, which was born outdoors in December, of food, medical attention, shelter and protection from the weather.

Mahoosuc Report Meeting Nov. 7:

Coffee, pie, chat, and our region's future

By MICHAEL DANIELS

Organizers of the upcoming community meeting in Bethel to discuss findings of the recently released Mahoosuc Region Resource Report are hoping for a wide and diverse turnout of area residents and opinion.

A three-part overview of the report concludes this week on Page 2.

The Bethel meeting, set for Wednesday, Nov. 7, from 7 to 8:30 p.m. in the Bethel Inn Conference Center, culminates a series of similar but smaller-scale gatherings in other western Maine towns.

"In meetings held this past summer and early fall in people's living rooms and public buildings in Mason Township, Gilead, Greenwood, Crescent Park, Newry, Andover, Hanover, and Upton, folks shared their concerns and observations on what is happening in their communities, how things are changing, and how the land is being

Houses have been on the rove here since before the Civil War

By ALISON ALOISIO

Last week a modular home was hauled in by truck and placed by crane at Gould Academy.

It's routine to see 21st-century mobile and modular homes traveling roads and highways on the way to their new locations.

But younger area residents might be surprised to learn that "mobile homes" were on the move as early as the mid-19th century.

For example: a small law office located on Lower Main Street in Bethel was moved to Broad Street, and is now the back portion of the Bethel Library.

A home that formerly sat on the library site was moved down to Church Street, and is now part of the Gould campus.

In several cases around Bethel Village, late 18th- and early 19th-century houses were moved back on their lots and turned 90 degrees, in order to attach them to a new, larger front section of the home.

Horses, oxen and snow "They thought nothing of moving these buildings," said Randy Bennett, curator of collections at the Bethel Historical Society.

And that was before the time of motorized vehicles. Without the help of mechanization, house movers had to rely on the original variety of horse power, and on the cold of winter.

Workers would first jack up a building, said Bennett.

"Screw jacks go back a long ways, and I'm guessing that cast iron jacks, along with large wooden 'pry bars' were used to raise buildings off the ground enough to get blocking and logs under them," he said. "Most of these 'roving houses' had granite foundations under them before they were moved,

TOWN HALL NOT A WORK OF CCC

To the Editor:

For the purposes of historical accuracy, I submit the following to the readers.

The Greenwood Town Hall located in Locke's Mills Village, was not built with CCC labor nor was federal money to the town used in the erection of the structure. The town of Greenwood commenced to raise and appropriate funds at town meetings starting in 1928/29 for the purpose of building a town hall.

Town Meeting, 3 March 1930: Article 31, "to see if the town will vote to raise money for the town hall fund, and name that sum."

The next article on the warrant for that meeting dealt with the possibility of buying the hotel and hall at Locke's Mills where town meetings had been held many years. Money raised at that meeting was added to the amount saved over the previous few years, making the account of $5,000 available on 1 Feb., 1930.

In 1930, $4,970.86 was spent for the construction project. Familiar names among the masons and builders are T.L. Lapham, chimney mason; Jay Willard; Fred B. Mason; J.W. Ring; Harry Norton; William House; Harry O. Norton. These are the names found on the record as the carpenters and builders. H. Alton Bacon was the general contractor. L.M. Mann & Son were the lumber suppliers.

The first town meeting held in the hall was March 2nd, 1931. Money was raised on March 2, 1931, and again on June 27 at a special town meeting in the total amount of $3,000.

It should be noted that the price of the land paid to Hannah Coolidge was $200; 75 cents for recording the deed.

In the early days following the building of the hall there was income from the American Legion that met there, i.e., $200 in 1932. The first electrical bill for the year was $43.18, and John F. Harrington applied the first coat of paint to the building in 1932 for the payment of $150. The total cost of the building, land and fixtures, including window screens, painting, and insurance was $8,450.48! Locally raised and Locally spent.

FORUM ENCOURAGES DIALOGUE

To the Editor:

The Mahoosuc Initiative is a new partnership among local groups who are familiar with our beautiful area and regional groups who share our interest in, and appreciation of the Mahoosucs and can offer resources to encourage and empower local leadership.

Since last spring, after receiving information on local peoples' special places (for hiking, fishing and general recreating) to be conserved the Mahoosuc Land Trust has sponsored neighborhood meetings in outlying towns throughout our region. These informal gatherings seek to stimulate discussion about how people think their communities can best protect their special places from the kind of development that threatens their continuing availability.

The forum will offer an overview of the Initiative and its reports. Its aim will be to encourage further exchange of ideas among participants that will determine the future steps that will conserve what is special about this unique regional asset.

Member, Mahoosuc Land Trust

Meeting

used differently," said Ginger Kelly of the Mahoosuc Land Trust, one of the co-sponsors of the Mahoosuc Initiative.

"There was a real sense that people appreciated an opportunity to share their views," Kelly said. "We heard a lot of questions about what the Initiative's goal is, what we are seeking to do."

"We continued to underscore the point that we are not coming to the communities with pre-determined solutions. We have been holding these meetings to hear from community residents to better define the issues, the needs, and the concerns of local citizens."

Ultimately, said Kelly, the Initiative partners hope to collaborate with community residents to help develop locally-driven remedies, action plans, and projects for shaping the future of the Mahoosuc Region.

"Our role," she said, "is simply to provide resources and to facilitate locally-driven efforts."

Deborah Perkins of the Northern Forest Alliance said change in the Mahoosuc Region is being driven by several forces including demographics, shifts in the types of jobs available, and changes in the patterns of land ownership — which in turn drive changes in how the land is used, who has access to it, and for what types of activities.

"Anyone who lives in the region is affected by such changes," Perkins said.

But, said Jeremy Sheaffer of The Wilderness Society, "what people are sometimes surprised to learn is that they are far from alone in their concern for the future of this region."

"The community meeting in Bethel is an opportunity for people to come together as a community and begin a process of having a collective hand in shaping future change for the prosperity and well-being of all residents," Scheaffer said.

Create, stop or shape change

The Initiative partners clearly expect the Mahoosuc Report will achieve more than honored space on local shelves.

"The difference between this report and perhaps others is the MRRR is not an end point," said Bryan Wentzell of the Appalachian Mountain Club.

"It's the beginning of a process of bringing people from Mahoosuc communities together to think regionally but act locally," Wentzell said.

"The MRRR doesn't tell anyone what they should do, doesn't ask for more money and/or tell the government to pass any more laws."

What the report does do, he said, "is tell you what's going on in the Mahoosuc region, and what existing programs and resources are out there that citizens, communities, leaders and landowners can tap into to create, stop or shape change."

Coffee, pie, chat

The format of Wednesday evening's meeting will be informal.

The event will kick off with a half hour for coffee, pie and chat, followed by a series of short presentations, and then a question-and-answer session.

For more on the Mahoosuc Initiative and Resource Report go to www.mahoosucin-f.org.

Forestry in the Mahoosuc region

The Mahoosuc region has a long and proud history as a wood basket for northern New England and the nation.

According to the report, forest-based manufacturing and recreation contribute more than $6.2 billion to the Maine economy and $2.6 billion to the New Hampshire economy. Approximately one to two forest-based manufacturing and tourism/recreation jobs are created from every 1,000 acres of Maine and New Hampshire forestland.

But this traditional pillar of the Mahoosuc economy is facing new challenges that are affecting businesses and communities all across the Northern Forest.

Both the New Hampshire towns in the Mahoosuc region that focused on papermaking and the Maine towns that focused on small turning mills and solid hardwood manufacturing are facing intense global competition.

Though these industries have seen substantial contraction of jobs in recent years, the report authors believe the region's forest industry is well positioned to play a continuing role in the local economic future.

One reason is that locally-owned businesses are reinventing themselves by seeking new and niche markets and investing in innovative equipment. Another is that, today, Maine and New Hampshire are the first and second most heavily forested states in the U.S. with 90 percent and 84 percent of their respective land areas in forest cover.

Although global and regional economic forces have caused a slow decline in the processing sector of the regional forestry industry, harvest volumes actually have spiked recently in Coos County, and have declined only slightly in Oxford County.

Future timber supply in the region, and across the Northern Forest, will depend upon far-sighted management and stable ownership of private forestland. One way to accomplish this, states the report, is through the tax code.

For instance, allowing parcels of at least 10 acres to be assessed at their value for forest and farm production, rather than at fair market value, as has been done in both states.

Ecological values of the Mahoosuc region

The Mahoosuc region is perhaps most unique because of its great diversity of landscape types, from its intriguing rock formations to its cool river valleys and its glaciated alpine summits.

The report notes that this landscape diversity also supports a diverse community of plant and animal species, and wildlife habitats.

As environmental stresses like global warming and development sprawl change the conditions faced by native and migratory species, preserving the region's ecological health must become a greater and greater priority for land-use planners.

The report's authors note that failure to do so will impact the quality of life in the Mahoosuc region as well as its future economic vitality.

They further note that retaining the qualities and advantages indigenous to this area might require "adopting an investment mentality that supports new projects and innovations in conservation, forestry, and community and economic development."

What is perhaps most notable about the report is its strong suggestion that, while the Mahoosuc region has weathered tremendous challenges and faces future hurdles, it has the human and natural resources to rebound and prosper.

Along the way, the authors of the report express their hope that every resident and visitor will understand the true riches of the region and the forces of change that must be managed in order to preserve its landscape and the traditional way of life it has supported for generations.

Voting

Bond issues
Efforts to preserve open space, public attractions along waterfronts and public university and college campuses would be among the recipients of funding if Maine voters approve the three bond issues.

The first bond proposal seeks $55 million for research and economic development. The bulk of that — $50 million — would be awarded through a competitive process administered by the Maine Technology Institute.

The second bond question seeks $43.5 million for improvements and additions at all campuses of the Maine Community College System, Maine Maritime Academy and the University of Maine System.

Local school systems would also get money for repairs and renovations.

The final bond issue seeks $35.5 million in borrowing to replenish the Land for Maine's Future program that sets aside open space for public use. Portions of the bond money would be directed to state parks and historic sites, and for riverfront projects.

Gov. John Baldacci has given his outspoken support to all three bond issues, and no organized opposition to any has surfaced.

"The decisions voters make will have a lasting effect on Maine's children and our state's economic future," said Baldacci. "We must make investments today if we want to be successful in a global, information-based economy ... Questions 2, 3 and 4 on November's ballot will help create the level playing field on which our people can work and win."

The three proposals are part of a borrowing package totaling $295 million that the Legislature earlier this year decided to send to voters in three parts. Voters in June authorized the first portion, which totaled $131 million for transportation and clean water programs.

A package worth nearly $30 million, mostly for transportation and some for environmental projects, will appear on the June 2008 ballot.

Supporters say that the three proposals voters decide on Tuesday will leverage at least $70 million in matching funds. At the same time, the $134 million to be borrowed would obligate the state to an estimated $40.5 million in interest payments, according to state Treasurer David Lemoine.

The bond issues would add to Maine's current General and Highway Fund bonded indebtedness, which totals nearly $500 million with interest.

While legislative Republicans have long been wary of added bond debt, the package before voters came with the nearly unanimous support of the Legislature.

Term limits, racino

Voters will decide Tuesday whether the state's law to limit the terms of legislators, implemented more than a decade ago, should remain as is or be adjusted to lengthen permissible runs in office.

Specifically, if approved by voters on Nov. 6, the proposal would extend Maine's present four-term limit to six terms — or from eight consecutive years to 12 in either the House of Representatives or Senate.

The extension would not apply to lawmakers now serving their fourth and final terms.

The ballot will also include an initiated question on whether the Passamaquoddy tribe can run a harness racing track with slot machines and high-stakes beano games in Calais, in downstate Washington County.

ANDOVER—The Snow Valley Sno-Goers and the Roxbury ATV Riders will sponsor a snowmobile and ATV safety course Nov. 11, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. at the Sno-Goers clubhouse, 209 S. Main St. in Andover. The course is free, and lunch will be provided. Children must be at least 10 years old, and those under 16 must be accompanied by a parent or guardian. Information: 645-2715.

Nielsen's conviction appealed

PARIS—A notice of appeal was filed Monday for Christian Nielsen, who was sentenced to life in prison for four murders he committed in 2006. An appeal for the 32-year-old Nielsen was expected. He pleaded guilty earlier this month to four counts of murder and was sentenced to four concurrent life sentences in prison. On Monday, Nielsen's lawyers Ron Hoffman and Margot Joly filed a notice to appeal Justice Robert Crowley's decisions on a motion to suppress and Nielsen's competency. Crowley ruled that all of Nielsen's statements except one were admissible as evidence and that Nielsen was fit to stand trial. Nielsen entered a conditional guilty to the murders of James Whitehurst, 50, of Batesville, Ark.; Julie Bullard, 65, of Newry; Selby Bullard, 30, of Bethel; and Cindy Beatson, 43, of Bethel.

'Thank you to the troops'

NEWRY—Sunday River's Grand Summit Ballroom will host a "Thank you to the Troops" luncheon on Saturday, Nov. 10 from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. Sunday River Security Officer Rich Viitala is organizing the event. All proceeds will go to sending care packages to troops stationed overseas. Sunday River VP of Mountain Operations Marvin Collins and Pastor John Pillsbury are scheduled to speak at the luncheon. The event is open to the public and a $10 donation is suggested. Please RSVP to Rich Viitala at 357-6229 or docviitala@yahoo.com. A full Italian buffet will be served along with dessert.

Consolidation foes tout network

AUGUSTA—The chief organizer of a drive to repeal Maine's new school system consolidation initiative says petition circulators will be out in force at state polling places next week. Skip Greenlaw of the Maine Coalition to Save Schools calls the consolidation plan "a threat to our Maine culture." And he says Gov. John Baldacci, who championed the consolidation plan, and Maine lawmakers who enacted it as part of the state budget are wrong when they claim it will save money. Greenlaw says the coalition is not against the idea of consolidation, but opposes forced consolidation. To advance their citizen initiative, backers of the repeal effort need to collect at least 65,087 valid signatures.

Smith

He was also found guilty on a civil charge of failing to maintain a structurally sound shelter for livestock.

The charges stemmed from conditions found on Smith's Vernon Street properties in 2006.

As part of the arrangement to keep the Percherons, Smith must pay for a veterinarian to examine the horses on a monthly basis, and allow biweekly visits by Bethel's ACO or other humane officers.

Defense, DA arguments

In arguing for Smith to keep the Percherons, attorney John Jenness of South Paris noted that if his client failed to comply with the requirements, jail time could be imposed.

Jenness also advocated minimum fines and punishment. He said Smith had generally cared for his animals adequately, and there was still some dispute on the cleanliness of the shelters and the conditions under which his Belgian mare had given birth in December.

Jenness also said that all the cattle Smith had owned were already gone.

Richard Beauchesne, Oxford County's assistant district attorney, said he did not believe Smith was intentionally cruel to his animals.

But he asked for harsher penalties: a six-month jail sentence fully suspended, with two years of administrative release; a lifetime ban on the ownership of animals other than a dog, as well as full restitution for the care of the mare and foal.

"He should not be allowed to have any animals other than a companion dog," said Beauchesne.

He also questioned how effective monthly inspection by a veterinarian would be.

Smith might pass an inspection, said Beauchesne, but something might happen to the horses two weeks later.

Meris Bickford, representing the MSSPA, expressed concern that Smith may have transferred ownership of some animals to other family members and would still effectively be in control of them.

She said that any transfer of animal ownership should be "at arms length," to ensure Smith does not have any influence.

Judge's reasoning

In sentencing Smith, McElwee said he had shown "extreme disregard" of his responsibility to take care of the animals.

But, McElwee said, he did not find Smith to be "a bad person," and believed economic conditions may have played a role in the inadequate care.

McElwee also said he was mindful that the conditions at Smith's properties had developed over a long period of time.

A lack of written reports by humane officials in the past, said the judge, may have contributed to a belief by Smith that he was caring adequately for the animals.

McElwee also said he took into account the lack of a prior record for Smith.

Reaction

Mac McCormick, the former Bethel animal control officer who charged Smith last year, said after the sentencing he was "glad it's finally resolved. I think it was a fair judgment."

But the state veterinarian who assisted McCormick expressed concern that Smith would be allowed to keep the three Percheron horses.

Dr. Christine Fraser said Smith had acquired a Percheron stallion and two mares after the 2006 charges were filed against him.

They have since been bred and a mare is pregnant, she said.

Fraser said she was disappointed Smith would be allowed to keep the Percherons.

"I fear something may happen again," she said, despite the oversight by a veterinarian and ACO.

Fraser said that while Smith may keep up the day-to-day care of the Percherons, she questions whether he would call for help in the event of a significant health issue.

Beauchesne and Jenness declined to comment on the sentence.

IN A MARRIAGE OF OLD AND NEW STYLES, TWO HOUSES BECAME ONE

The Prodigal Inn in Mayville is an example of two homes put together to form one. The 1813 Federal-style home is in the rear. The house was moved back and turned 90 degrees to make way for the newer, larger Queen Anne-style section in the front, built in 1881. The home was formerly known as the Samuel B. Twitchell House. (Photo: A. Aloisio) and it would also have been a simple matter of removing a few foundation stones and then inserting long, pointed logs under them before they were pulled to another location."

Then, "they'd take whole trees, cut out sections and make sleds, and hook up horses and oxen," Bennett said.

A BHS photo of a barn on the move shows 15 to 20 teams of horses and oxen.

Movers also utilized the ice of the Androscoggin River.

A large Gilead home was moved down the river from Shelburne, N.H., Bennett said. "Then they hauled it up over the bank," he said, and placed it near the Town Hall.

Several other homes in Gilead also came from Shelburne by the same means.

In addition to homes, schoolhouses were commonly moved, as the population of children shifted from one area of town to another, said Bennett.

Another practice that took hold in the mid-19th century was "recycling" old homes to become the rear ells of new ones, Bennett said.

Federal-style homes (like BHS' Moses Mason House) were commonly built between the 1790s and the 1830s, he said.

But then the Greek Revival home became fashionable, appearing in Maine first along the coast.

"There was a need for larger houses for families," said Bennett. "It was also very much a stylish thing. People wanted up-to-date houses."

And so the timber-framed, more roughly constructed Federal homes gave way to the fancier style, modeled after Greek temples.

New Bethel homeowners, however, were not ones to waste anything, Bennett said.

Instead of tearing down a Federal-style house to replace it, the homeowner often moved it back on the lot and turned it 90 degrees.

Turning the building made the old and new roofs line up better, said Bennett.

"There are at least a dozen early 19th-century homes serving as rear ells of existing homes," he said.

Examples include the West Parish Congregational Church parsonage on Broad Street, the Bean-Hamlin House on Church Street (at Gould) and A Prodigal Inn in Mayville, which is owned by Tom and Marcey White.

The couple remodeled the home, originally known as the Samuel B. Twitchell House, several years ago.

The front section is Queen Anne style, and the rear Federal.

Said Marcey, "When Tom was remodeling, he noticed major differences behind the walls when he dug into it, in the roughness of the timbers in the old section, lower ceilings, thinner doors, and the haphazard way the beams were placed, whereas the front section was more orderly and with milled wood more predominant."

The high ceilings of the front section also characterize later construction, said Bennett, while low ceilings were typical in Federal-style homes.

Still in place, but now on the left rear section of the home, is the "front door," which formerly faced the road.

While 19th-century residents moved and turned the older homes for a practical reason, Bennett said the practice served an historical purpose as well.

"It was recycling, but also the older buildings were preserved because they were moved," he said.

Showcase

The chamber is working with Telstar's Future Business Leaders of America Club to organize the showcase.

After the students leave, the businesses and organizations will have an opportunity to become more familiar with each other.

Presentations are also planned.

Finally, from 5 to 8 p.m., the showcase will be open to the public. There will be door-prize giveaways and other specials.

Admission is free and refreshments will be on sale to benefit a Telstar organization.

Zinchuk said the showcase has space available for a total of 50 organizations, at a cost of $45 for chamber members and $65 for non-members.

Anyone interested may call the chamber at 824-2282.

The Way I See It

by Sharon Bouchard

Sharon Bouchard's column is published ference I observed was the vision they both saw as they went from room to room. It's like they were not even looking at the same room.

...men and women don't see the same things when they look at a house.

Renee saw the perfect spot for future Christmas trees. Jay saw a room that needed more electrical outlets. Renee saw a front door that just begged for swags or wreaths that could be changed with the seasons. Jay saw a front door badly in need of weather stripping.

A trip to the basement for Renee lasted only minutes, long enough to confirm where the furnace is located. For Jay, who spent a considerable amount of time checking structural integrity, it was a room of many possibilities.

The house that will now be their home is large and includes shed rooms and a two-story garage/barn. For Renee there are endless color scheme possibilities and decorative options. For Jay there will be workshop space, hide-away spots and a place where he can put out a "What Happens in the Garage, Stays in the Garage" sign.

I think Jay and Renee are pretty typical in their male/female visions. When my son and daughter-in-law went to check out the new house their reactions were pretty much the same as Jay and Renee.

After Doug checked out the structural integrity he went to the shed/workshop saying how much he envied his brother-in-law. Wanda, on the other hand, sized up windows with the eye of a seamstress and viewed the kitchen and pantry saying how much she envied her sister-in-law.

It was during this period of time that I happened to be in the hardware aisle of a local department store. There was a young couple there on a mission to pick out handles for cupboards and drawers. The young lady was telling her mate that she thought an antique look would go so well with their décor.

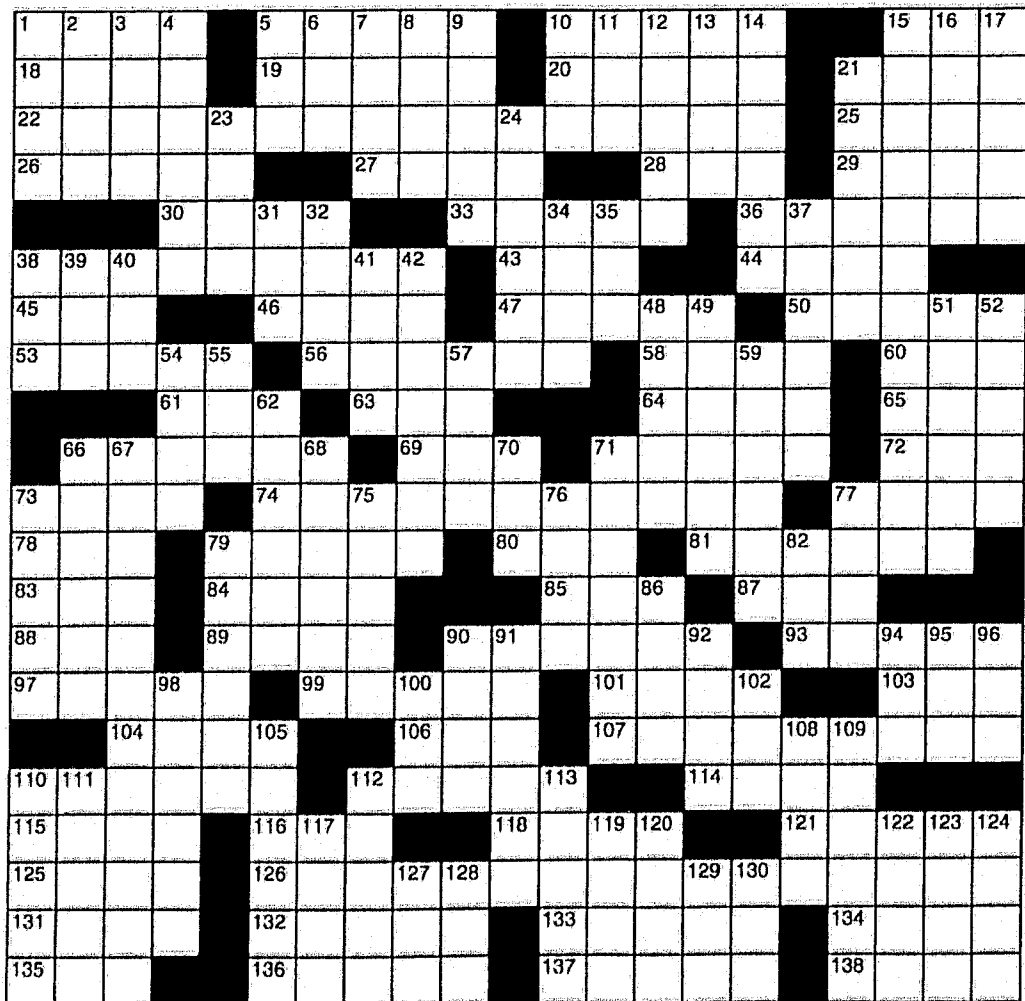

The young man, who happened to be holding a power tool responded with, "Check out this bad boy!"

She was all about functionality and aesthetics and he was about power. An age-old story.

Needless to say there are a lot of differences between men and women. It would take a book or perhaps two to cover them all so I certainly can't address them in one column.

But the way I see it the Martha Stewart Complex of women and the Mikita Mentality of men is certainly one of the very powerful yet decorative differences that resides in us all.

Mayville and Around Town

By Donald G. Bennett

Congratulations, Mike Thurston! The state's skiing organizations made a very sound choice when they elected Mike to Maine's Ski Hall of Fame. Mayville people should be proud of the fact that one of us has been recognized so broadly for his insight and years of work to help our economy.

The early days of Sunday River and Mt. Abram put new dollars into the pockets of local businesses and builders. My family's milk business, Riverside Farms, was one of the first local suppliers to benefit from the ski business. While some looked to the ski slopes, we looked to the snack shops and milk drinkers in the ski crowd. I think also of how the Kailey family made Sunri Ski Shop a household name among Bethel area skiers and summer outdoor recreation people. Kathy and I took our first Androscoggin canoe ride in a canoe rented from Sunri.

Three Bethel World War II veterans were honored at a special Navy Day observance by the Society of Colonial Wars of Maine and the Order of Founders and Patriots of the Maine Society at the Moses Mason House on Friday, Oct. 27. The veterans honored were Emerson Clough, U.S. Army; Henry Robertson, U.S. Navy and Pearl Harbor survivor; and Earlon "Bud" Paine, U.S. Navy. Henry Robertson was unable to attend and was represented by his wife, Betty, and daughter, Jean. After the meeting, those who attended enjoyed a banquet catered by the Rooster's Roadhouse. Read more about this program below.

Saturday, the annual Outing Club Ski Sale was going on in the Gould field house. As someone observed, the wet weather made a good reason to shop indoors — boots, skis, clothes, etc. — at Bethel's "Farnsworth Mall."

One of the oldest names in Bethel ski gear retailing, Peter Kailey, was on hand. Peter told me that he is going back into the retail store business again. The Kaileys are in the process of moving to Lincoln, N.H. Peter will be running the ski shops at Waterville Valley and Loon Mountain.

John Carter has done himself and his farm proud with an excellent facelift for his main cattle barn. John has showed us what a miracle new clapboards and red paint can achieve. Middle Intervale Farm now has one of the best looking faces on its barn of any working barn in the valley.

Water main installation has been going on along the North Road this week. The BWD's main line extension has crossed the North Road where Daisy Bryant Road meets it. By Saturday the new 12-inch water main had been laid along its route west but on the south side of the road so that it had passed the Angevine Park pond property.

First prize for a business sign with a mayflower motif in Mayville goes to Mayville Junction owner, Dom Pugliarese. With the mayflower design, the message may be pointed at visiting Bay State'ers to recognize your state flower and shop here.

Other signs of the times: Monday gas was up to $2.999 or in plain English, $3 a gallon. Heating oil price has jumped 10 cents to $2.849 a gallon and at 2 p.m. the temperature had not reached 40 degrees.

At the Barker Mountain Lodge area, landscape repairs have moved noticeably along from the state of extreme erosion that was left after the July 11 storm. Among all the items needing repair, the main parking lot has been filled in and graded so that it looks back to normal. The huge canyon next to the lodge has been filled and a new giant-sized culvert has replaced the original one that now by comparison seems pretty puny. Sunday noon work was still going on in the area between the lodge and the chairlift base. Higher up above the lodge area an excavator was working on another section of the project.

At the end of last week, the new Gould Academy staff house on the corner of Elm and Winter streets had arrived from Schiavi's builder where it landed on its waiting foundation. As the new building is finished and mates with its garage, it may become the Elm Street sightseeing attraction for Fall 2007.

Also at Gould, men working on the academy's new tennis courts next to the Farnsworth

G&W VOLUNTEER HONORED—Mary Smith of Woodstock was recognized recently with a card and gift card for her many hours volunteering at the G&W Transfer Station in Locke's Mills. Smith operates the swap shop and helps connect people with items. Smith is shown here with Greenwood Town Manager Kim Sparks, representing the citizens of Greenwood, Woodstock and Milton Plantation.

Field House finished stringing fence netting on the poles. So it seems that the basic court work is done.

Stephen T. Seames, with assistance from Randy Bennett and Danna Nickerson, organized arrangements for the meeting noted above of about 40 people at the Bethel Historical Society on Friday. Commander Harry W. Kinsley, Jr., USN (Ret) of Limerick was speaker of the day. Seames is a past governor of the Order of Founders and Patriots of Maine; he spoke to the group about the Bethel Historical Society and its plans to build a new library and museum building. Visitors to Bethel for the meeting included: Commander and Mrs. Kinsley, Joseph William Pepperell Frost and his daughter, Elizabeth, of Eliot; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Millard Hills, Society of Colonial Wars of Massachusetts; Past National Governor of the Order of Founders and Patriots of America, Robert Vivian of Wells; the Rev. W. Ramsey Richardson, Deputy Governor Virginia Society of Colonial Wars; Mrs. Emily Richardson of Charlottesville, Va.; and Compatriot Geoffrey Colby of the Vermont Society of the Sons of the American Revolution. The meeting group presented a contribution to the Bethel Historical Society to assist its annual operations. Society Trustee Bruce Pierce of Newry graciously accepted the contribution.

Jim List of Hanover has established a solar consulting and installation business. He designed the solar hot water heating system Jeff Parsons has going at Bethel Outdoor Adventure. If you are interested drop by BOA and see how that one is working. For more information about List's qualifications and solar heating uses, his website is <http://jimlist.freehostia.com>.

Now that we are in modern Internet times, you can see what our Mayville artisans are up to without leaving home. I was snooping into the Timberlake's website the other day and found some very handsome furniture pieces on display. The roadside sign says that a new website has opened called ShakerChairmakers.com. Opening this site leads the curious into their online showroom.

The Timberlake's next door neighbor, Tom White, has been up to a lot of sculpturing this summer and you can see it on his website, tomwhitestudio.com. One of his pieces of art is the sculpture of a boy from times long past called "The Sower." The boy is sowing seeds by hand from a bag slung over his shoulder. My first thought was that the idea had come from the Millet painting of The Sower, but Tom said that he had gotten the commission from one of the country's best-known publishers who uses a stylized image of a sower as the company logo. Maybe the publisher got it from the painter as the painting appears in one of their Web pages.

You can also see photos of Tom's bronze masterpiece created last summer. The memorial statue of Korean War Medal of Honor soldier Pfc. Emory Bennett is mounted in beautiful Riverfront Park at Cocoa, Fla. Sonny Bean, Dick Littlefield and Rudy Royer can take credit for advice on some of the technical details in Tom's statue.

If you have news about Bethel area events, family happenings, humor in Bethel, business, opening or closings and special visitors in general please call me at 824-2094 or e-mail to Donald@thebetheljournals.com or donaldbe@roadrunner.com.

7:30 a.m. I had just got through saying to Hugh that we should see a moose when he noticed one on the railroad tracks. When we stopped the moose could not decide which way to go. He ran down the tracks toward Maine and then turned around and headed back toward New Hampshire. He made a sharp left, down into the ditch, came up onto the road and ran in front of us. Thankfully, he kept on going across the road since he was very large. The Jeep would not have been much of a match for him.

We called our grandson, Ben Chapman, this past weekend. We wanted to wish his mother, Elena, a Happy Birthday and to congratulate him on the results for the Cross-Country State Championships that were held at Leavitt High School. The Ellsworth team came in fourth and Ben finished 39th out of 110 runners. The Ellsworth team was Eastern Maine Champs for the Third year in a row and now they are headed to the New England race again this year. Congratulations, Ben!

As a demonstration of its commitment, FHWA decided to identify a minimum of 30 exemplary ecosystem initiatives in at least 20 states or Federal Lands Highway divisions by September of 2007. Among the projects recognized was the Maine Department of Transportation's study to restore the Sunday River Watershed. The study resulted in the identification of several restoration projects. Happy Birthday to Gil Seeley, long-time correspondent from Newry. Gil celebrated her 100th birthday recently. This handsome lady wrote her column till about a year ago. It was always short, informative and inspiring. Thank you Gil.

A Flu Clinic was held at the Errol Town Hall on Oct. 25. Rebecca Bean, as usual, was the coordinator. She was accompanied by lab techs, nurses and office personnel. Flu shots, cholesterol readings and blood pressure were also offered. A healthy snack table was enjoyed. Citizens from surrounding towns including Upton attended. Thank you to Upper Connecticut Valley Hospital for this service to our community.

Raccoons and bears are seen nightly raiding birdfeeders. My peanut butter feeder and suet basket are up on the roof. Thieves!

Dianne and Ginny Williamson observed a good size bear, obviously full of apples, relaxing on his back scratching his armpits. Bears enjoy a good scratch. They obviously are carrying some very close little friends in their fur coats.

The temperatures mornings are now in the high 20s and low 30s. It makes you step lively doing outdoor chores. Most houses that burn wood have large stacks of wood on their property. The air smells of beautiful wood smoke (not the California kind). The apples are red and snap as you bite them.

Hunting season is upon us. An occasional hunter walks up the road in his bright orange jacket.

Liz and Walt Stanczyk traveled to Durham to welcome their grandson, Patrick, who is home on leave after completing Navy Boot Camp.

We have many varieties of birds at this time. They must be on the "flyway" passing through. I won't list the regular guests. Jim and Evelyn Kenney are being visited by a red-bellied woodpecker. He is a great noisemaker and old books call him "Chad" or "Chuck." They eat more vegetable matter than insects. He is eating apples at Kenneys but berries, corn and acorns are his usual fare. The bird is robin sized, barred black and white, pale buff below. Sexes are similar except the male has a red crown. The female has a red nape only. It is called the "zebra back" because of its black and white stripes. It consumes many wood-boring beetles but also dines on grasshoppers and other insect pests when necessary. It stores acorns and beechnuts habitually in tree hollows.

We now have two female cardinals, but the male has disappeared. I hope "Errol the Feral Cat" didn't eat him.

The "Bird of the Week" is of course the red-bellied woodpecker who lost his way and came to Upton.

By the way, it snowed on Sunday, Oct. 28. Things are getting back to normal.

Happy Halloween! Watch out for spooks, witches and candy poachers.

I sure hope the Sox win this tonight. We all need a good night's sleep. And again I'm sitting here trying to keep one eye on the TV and one on the keyboard.

The hunting season arrived with rain and fog. I woke up early and heard rain. Snuggled right back in and said I could wait another day. These legs have enough trouble on a good day. We did hear several shots during the day. Guess someone was spooked by Bambi or had a clear shot. Guess would be that Bambi did the trick.

Want to remind everyone to get the dreaded flu shot. I went to the Rumford VA Clinic for an appointment and received mine on Wednesday afternoon. No fuss, no bother.

We learned this week that the old Outlaw in Texas is still cancer free for a year. Bob and Wilma are very happy. Bob has certainly worked to get back up and about. But it was with a lot of love from Wilma, family, puppies and friends. Course the puppies spoil him and Bob spoils them just a bit. Omelet for breakfast and all the goodies they can mooch.

The Patrys of Dave's Small Engine Repair on Oxford Plains enjoyed two days of an all-expense paid trip to Kentucky. Dave, Paula and son Rob were to receive the Ariens Dealer under a million sales for Sales and Customer Service. They certainly have worked very hard to establish this dealership and are to be commended for their family-run business that continues to grow. Their son Rob is right there each day working as hard if not harder than Dad or Mom. I'm sure they received as many mementos of their award and a tremendous amount of advertising. My hat is off to them. Well done. I'll be down very soon to see the rewards.

We have a new great niece. Brynn Elizabeth Fortier joins big brother Logan. Logan was going to see sister this afternoon after his nap. Dad and Mom are doing well too. Mummo and Grampa Hakala were very happy on hearing the news Saturday afternoon.

The Mayor and Mrs. Inman have returned from Las Vegas. They enjoyed a wonderful week with Joe and Peg Perham. Saturday afternoon Milt was very tired and looking forward to a night's sleep. I'm sure he will be out hunting first thing Monday morn.

At last report, Leah Deegan is doing well at Norway Rehab. She has come a long way and still needs friends to give her a boost. So get out there and tell her that I sent you.

I'm closing for tonight. The way this game is going, I'm going die a woodpecker death on a steel roof. Smile!

What a wet, dreary weekend. Resident-only deer hunting tagged only one deer as of 2 p.m. on Saturday afternoon. I think that most hunters pretty much stayed in their truck and drove around because of the weather. The weekend before, on Oct. 20, it was youth hunting day in Maine for those age 10 to 16. Fourteen deer were tagged at Mills Market. Good job youngsters!

Lots of people turned out for the Haunted Walk held on Saturday night, even though it was pouring out.

What about those Red Sox, huh? A lot of fans in Andover have been glued to the TV for the past week!

Gary and Janet Meisner and Orville Meisner all attended game two of the World Series in Boston, on Thursday night, Oct. 26.

Absentee ballots are now available at the Town Office, for next week's election. The office will be closed on voting day, Nov. 6, but the Selectmen's meeting will still be held (at 1 p.m.).

Happy birthday this week to Austin Mills on Nov. 1, Travis Morton on the 5th, and Andrew Mills on the 6th.

Don't forget to turn your clocks back one hour on Saturday night.

The Transfer Station generator is out for public bid. If you know anyone who needs a lot of power, 75kw, let them know to have a sealed bid at the Town Office by 1 p.m. Tuesday, Nov. 6. The minimum bid is $4,500.

As a reminder, the new Budget Committee meets weekly at the Town Office from 6 to 8 p.m. These meetings are open to the public. Please check with the Town Office to find out what budgets are being discussed on what date. This is a good opportunity to educate yourself on details prior to the March Town Meeting.

The Mahoosuc Initiative will be discussed with Dessert and Dialogue tonight, Thursday, Nov. 1, at 7 p.m., in the Hanover Town House, 12 Howard Pond Road. Of interest are your concerns about conservation in the neighborhood. RSVP to Ginger Kelly, 824-3806 or gk@mahoosuc.org.

The Rumford Grange will be having a turkey dinner with all the fixings on Sunday, Nov. 4, from noon to 1:30 p.m., at the Rumford Center Grange Hall. The price charged will be $7 for adults and $3.50 for those under 12.

At last week's Select Board meeting the Board proclaimed the week of Oct. 23 through Oct. 31 as Red Ribbon Week in an effort to bring awareness to alcohol and drug abuse. The proclamation was the result of a request from the Rumford Elks Club.

The Board heard Bob Fortin's report about solid waste issues. It was also revealed that scheduling of the annual Town Meeting was on hold because of audit issues. Apparently a key figure in the audit company has had surgery and is unable to work on Hanover's accounting.

The Board selected dates for a Comprehensive Plan meeting but later found rescheduling was necessary.

The Select Board heard a report from Select Board member Brenda Gross about the Med-Care expansion plans. Brenda is the Hanover representative to the Med-Care Board. The Hanover Board agreed to write a letter acknowledging the Med-Care concept but they also wanted to remain informed of other alternatives.

It was also announced that Brenda Gross had been selected as a Hanover Representative to the School Consolidation Committee. The Hanover School Board will also name one of their members to the committee.

The Hanover Select Board will attend the Greenwood Selectmen's meeting on Nov. 1 to discuss regional cooperation.

Election Day is Tuesday, Nov. 6, and in Hanover the voting will be at the Hanover Town Office between 10 a.m. and 8 p.m. Once again a food drive will take place with the collection of non-perishable goods being collected by the Boy Scouts to be donated to local food pantries.

A memorial service took place at Hanover Cemetery on Saturday, Oct. 27, when the remains of twin brothers, John and Emile Faucher, were laid to rest. John had passed away on May 13, 2003 and Emile died last Aug. 13. The brothers both lived much of their adult lives in Alaska and were buried

Volunteers Make It Happen: The Lewin Center

The Lewin Center is a nonprofit organization formed in September 2006 with a three-fold mission: develop far-reaching experiential programming to further individual and group understanding and to promote civic, intellectual and community strengths; enhance and nurture the strong relationship with the Bethel community; restore the Gehring House as an historical community asset. Here, a group of 12 Outward Bound students helped center volunteers tend the gardens in July. Two are pictured here with Bonnie Pooley and Ruth Barrett. In the past year the Gehring House has hosted a number of local educational and cultural opportunities, both weekly and single events. A large number of Bethelites are very involved in The Lewin Center, both as participants in planning and policy and as volunteers. An October conference brought together local supporters, board members, and donors and supporters from farther away to vision and strategize for the future. Work has begun on extensive renovations and restoration of the Gehring House. For more information contact program director Nancy Davis at 256-6956 or at nancy@lewincenter.org. One Hanover resident was a successful hunter on a very soggy Maine residents-only hunting day. Josh Gross got a four-point, 167-pound buck while hunting in Peru.

Concerned Howard Pond camp owners recently reported that beavers were working along their shoreline cutting down trees. A check with the Hanover Town Office showed that the beavers had not applied for a shoreland zone cutting permit. The Hanover Planning Board will meet Nov. 7, at 6:30 p.m.

We finally arrived home at about 8:30 p.m. on Oct. 21 after a trip of about 8,700 miles and just over $2,000 in gas. During that time, we paid between $2.53 and $3.55 per gallon for gas. We bought two new tires for the camper and two oil changes for the truck. Other expenses were primarily campground fees, incidentals, souvenirs and a few restaurant meals, so we spent less than budgeted for the trip. While we thoroughly enjoyed the trip, we were really glad to get home!

Next morning I saw that the raccoons had enjoyed a field day during our absence; they stripped the remaining silver queen corn from our garden and ate every last pear on both of our pear trees, breaking several small branches in the process. The following morning Snuffy began to get even; he was proudly guarding the dead body of a medium size 'coon he had killed in the road by our driveway. The morning after that, he had a large 'coon treed in a maple tree near the end of the garden; this one I helped Snuffy do away with. At least, those two won't destroy any garden produce next year!

After a couple days of cleaning out the camper and the truck and putting stuff away, I tackled the yard while Mona worked at catching up on housework. We have dozens of large maple trees around the house and yard, and they produce tons of leaves in October. As I see it, I raked and hauled off over eight "cords" of leaves. How do I figure? I used my one-cord dump trailer and filled and dumped eight full loads of leaves and even had more to be hauled off with my lawn tractor and small trailer. Now, at least, the only leaves in the yard will be those that blow in from other areas.

I plan to use part of my spare time for chasing those elusive white tails for a few days.

During our trip, we found that our cell phone had a small problem. We kept receiving phone calls that consisted only of a "beep." Nobody there! I had son-in-law Mark, who used to work for Motorola, check out the phone, and he found the "voice mail" feature jammed with hundreds of messages, which consisted of "beeps!" When I phoned Tracfone and described the problem, they promised to send a replacement phone and issue a new phone number. I quickly asked them to delay the replacement phone until after CAROLINE FINLEY A POSTER WINNER—Last week Gov. John Baldacci congratulated 13 students in grades K-8 for winning School Bus Safety Awards. The students were honored during a reception at the Blaine House. Here, Gov. Baldacci congratulates Caroline Finley, a second-grader in Mrs. Wight's classroom at Crescent Park School. Her post was chosen in Division II (grades K-2) as a second-place winner. "Your teachers, fellow students, families and friends - as well as bus drivers all over the state - are proud of your work. School bus drivers often perform their duties in the midst of adverse conditions, while exercising caution and following the laws of the road to maximize the safety of their passengers," the governor said. The School Bus Safety Poster Contest is sponsored by the Maine Association of Pupil Transportation and organized by the Student Safety Training Committee. Caroline received an award, a trophy, and a check for $50.

Went with Babe Bartlett and Karen Yarasitis to Fiddleicious, a concert of musicians of all ages. There were fiddlers, piano, guitars, banjos, harp, mandolin, accordion, flute, etc. Sid Yarasitis was one of the fiddle players. All players are from diverse areas of Maine. Also playing fiddle was Maggie from Earth & Fire Pottery. Saw Joyce and Willie Hathaway enjoying the music also.

Don Feeney was splitting wood in his yard on Saturday.

Historical Society

The Historical Society museum is all it should be. It serves the area well. The society is small but very active and dedicated. They have your interests at heart. They have fine collections of local artifacts, art, furniture, glass, china, textiles, tools, farm equipment, old photos, books, jewelry, small antiques and more. They have added a little Duncan Phyfe table to its collection. It is mahogany. The museum combines history and culture to expand all the horizons. It enriches the awareness of these building blocks of civilization itself. The museum has short biographies of many well-known Bryant Pond citizens.

The Historical Society regrets the passing of Mrs. Hall. She was a nice lady and an important member of the community.

Sometime the society might have an appraisal day like the Bethel Society as a fundraiser. It's something to consider for next summer.

Curator Larry Billings framed a print of Windsor Castle the other day.

The Historical Society dues are $2 annually. Under age 55 a life membership is $25, and over age 55 a life membership is $15. The dues have not changed in 29 years. Why not join?

Crystal Lake and I met up with Pastor Thacker, Janet Farrington, and Elizabeth Putnam at our church on the East Andover Road in Rumford Center at 7 o'clock in the morning, Saturday, Oct. 20, to attend an All Ministries Convention in Sanford. If you know me very well you will know that being anywhere at that time in the morning is a miracle in itself.

We took the church bus, with the pastor driving. That was fun in itself because in the past we have gone in separate cars and have missed out on little tidbits that help us to get to know each other better.

I was fortunate to get into a workshop by the Rev. Jim Michaels, who pastored the church before Pastor Thacker. The theme of his workshop was how to minister to people within the realities of today's world. He pretty much summed it up when he said that we have to stop telling people how bad they are and start telling them how good God is.

I also went to a workshop dealing with worship teams and music. That was good, too. We ended up with the Rev. Ed Shearer giving a talk on Patchwork Christians. Interesting.

We got home around 5:30 p.m., so it was quite a long day. At least the weather was good.

Debbie and Owen Brown were going Friday night to attend a workshop for worship leaders, but the weather was so foggy, windy, and rainy that they had to turn around and come home. From talk I heard Saturday, I guess even those that lived around there had a hard time getting to the church.

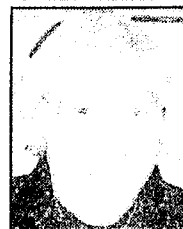

Speaking of Debbie Brown, she has closed her shop here in Lockes and has set up a booth at The Root Cellar in Bethel. It is located in the back of the building housing the Gem Shop. She will hold regular hours starting on Oct. 30. I will miss her down here, but I wish her great success in Bethel. Chloe will miss having play dates with her brother, Brutus, as Debbie would bring him over for an afternoon sometimes.

Gerry Shimamura took me to Norway, Friday afternoon, so I could get my flu shot. We also did a little shopping while we were there. It also is about the only time Chloe gets to ride anywhere unless Ralph doesn't bring Kia when he takes me places. Then Kia's nose is out of joint, which is understandable. Right now taking them at the same time would be a disaster waiting to happen as they are pretty much puppies still and want to play when they get together. That is a story in itself as Kia tries to play with a dog who is twelve pounds to her forty something. Actually Chloe is a bit overweight and should be about ten but, she has the stocky body of the dachshund so it is hard to keep her there. Marcia's Sadie, is about 100 pounds to Chloe's 12, but Sadie is quite a bit older and is content to lie down and let Chloe play all over her. Marcia has Sadie at the vet's for an overnight as I write this, where she will have tests as she has been having some problems with her digestion. I hope it is nothing serious as Sadie is such a sweetheart of a dog.

I was very upset to hear about the death of Greg Merrill, as my children went to school with him. It upset my children, too, when I told them of it. Ralph said Greg had stopped to talk to him only a couple days before the stroke happened, so the news of the stroke and his death came as quite a shock. I also feel very badly for his family. Words are so inadequate at a time like this. He will be greatly missed.

Summer returned again for a few days last week. We all enjoyed that. Leaves are falling everywhere.

On Sunday, Oct. 28, the Rev. Richard Beal, minister of the West Paris Universalist Church, will speak on "Celebrate Samhain." He will look to the origins of Halloween as one way to understand earth-centered spirituality. The service is at 9 a.m. followed by a coffee hour. Do join with us.

Plans for the 101 West Paris Universalist Church annual Chicken Pie Supper to be held on Nov. 15, the Thursday before Thanksgiving, are being made. Beverly Stevens is chairperson. It takes many helpers to prepare and serve the many people that attend.

There were several sales on Saturday. I attended three of them. Beryl Bonney and I had our lunch of a red hot dog in a roll and coffee at the Grange sale. Many West Paris people were out on that summery day.

Lamb left for a few days to go north to teach ecology at Crawford Notch, N.H. She returned on Sunday and attended church and had lunch with me before leaving for Conan for a few weeks' more teaching. She enjoys being independent and traveling and teaching ecology. Muffin greeted her as an old friend, so maybe she will get over running whenever anyone comes into the house.

It is the first of November. Hunting season has begun. I haven't heard the gun shots, yet, but probably will have by the time you read this. Tasha is sporting a make-shift vest. Actually it is an old people vest, but hers died last year. At least she won't look like a deer. She is hiding. I think that means that she doesn't like it. I will look for something better.

It is finally cooling off here, though Wednesday it is scheduled to warm again. One forecast was for snow showers, though. We shall see.

Well New Englanders can definitely be proud this week. Patriots are 8 and 0 and the Red Sox won the World Series. Quite a week for us; now the Patriots just have to keep winning.

Next Tuesday, Nov 6, is Election Day. There are all sorts of referenda and bond issues. Here I do not believe we have any candidates to vote on. I haven't seen the usual literature drops, but the ads on TV are constant. If you believe one, the other is lying and vice versa. I thought they had to be honest, but I guess that is until caught. We shall find out who is telling the truth.

According to my calendar, Friday is the Dia De Los Muertos.

tos., i.e. the Day of the Dead. I do not know what that really means. If anyone does, please let me know. If it were on Oct. 31, I would say it was related to Halloween. Maybe it is.

Also, if anyone has information they would like to see in this column, contact me at 743-0583 or rockhead1@roadrunner.com.

I am assuming that the Selectmen will meet on Nov 5, as it is the first Monday of the month. I heard that the Tax Committee is looking for members, again.

Next Thursday is Peanuts 4th birthday. That is Sarah Arlene Hebert. Happy Birthday, Sarah!

That is all I have for this week. Beware the trick or treaters and enjoy this real fall weather.

Oxford County Republicans

John Bradford of Brooklin, Maine, representing the Republican Leadership Council, was the featured speaker at the Oct. 9 monthly meeting of the Oxford County Republican Committee held at Franklin Grange 124 in Bryant Pond.

Following a beautiful Grange supper, Bradford spoke on the Republican Leadership Council, which was founded in 2005 by former New Jersey Governor and EPA Administrator Christie Todd Whitman, former Missouri U.S. Senator John Danforth and former Maryland Lt. Governor Michael Steele. Its purpose is to support fiscally conservative, socially tolerant candidates at all levels of government and to reclaim the word "Republican."

The RLC's vision is a Republican Party unified by basic tenets of fiscal responsibility and personal freedom, while allowing diverse opinions on social issues by its members. The Council brings together

FIGURES OF SPEECH PRODUCTIONS—Mahoosuc Arts Council will present Figures of Speech Theatre's entitled, "Far East — Tales from China and Japan" on Nov. 7 at 6 p.m. at the Crescent Park Elementary School. Admission is free, but donations are welcome. Far East features two stories: In Japan's lyrical story of "The Crane," an injured bird transforms into a beautiful woman with a mysterious power that she must keep secret in order to survive. "The Crane" is told in the traditional Japanese bunraku puppetry style. "The Rat's Wedding" features an arrogant Daddy Rat in search of the most powerful being in the world to marry his precious daughter. Figures of Speech Theatre is an international touring theatre known for using an innovative combination of actors, puppets, and movement to tell myths and folk tales from all over the world. The company, based in Freeport, is a four-time winner of the UNIMA Citation of Excellence, the highest award in American puppetry. For more information call 824-3575 or go to www.MahoosucArts.org fresh, new voices who believe the Republican Party needs to focus on Republican candidates who emphasize the GOP's traditional policy principles that include lower taxes combined with balanced budgets, leaving money in the hands of those who earned it while fostering a healthy economy, a strong national defense and engaged foreign policy to ensure the United States maintains its place in the world, protection of the environment, and less government interference in economic as well as social matters.

The RLC also believes that social issues need not be the core of the party's platform since there is room to agree to disagree among party members.

During the business meeting that followed, State Committeewoman Becky Kendall of Bethel, who coordinated the booth at Fryeburg Fair, thanked everyone who helped: Dan Bolling, Dennis Doyen, Arlan and Ellie Jodrey, Erlon Jones, Paula Smith, Virginia Noble, Nancy Grover, Nancy Bell, Earl and Marilyn Bell, Paul Ramsey, Dorothy Bartlett, Ruth Feeney, Donald Marean, Joey Lyons, Mary M. Brown, H. Sawin Millett, Norm and Barbara Ferguson, Joan Putnam, Jarrod Crockett, Bruce Hanley, Neil Hanley, Rob and Louann Cameron, Paul Billings, Barbara Robinson, and Stan Howe. Several people who helped at the booth were at the meeting and noted the strong interest in Republican presidential candidates and in the re-election of U. S. Senator Susan Collins.

The next meeting was scheduled for Nov. 13 in Oxford at the Adventist Church with the Hannibal Hamlin Republican Women's Club serving the dinner. Trevor Bragdon of Augusta will speak on signature gathering for referendums to be considered in 2008.

Worthley, with 19 members present.

The Park & Ride sign has been taken down. When we put it back in the spring, we will have the map on the back side of the sign. Bob has made us a new sign at the entrance to the Park & Ride. Thank you to both, Victor and Bob.

We have two reminders — first is that certain trails were closed as of Sunday, Oct. 21. These trails are the Coley Trail from the Park & Ride to Horseshoe Valley to Route 120 in Andover and the Chandler Trail. There are a lot of trails that are still open for riding until the first groomable snowstorm. The second reminder is that if you are riding in Andover, please ride on the tar on the town roads. This is requested from the town.

Once again, we have had Ken Koskela working on the trails. He removed many rocks from the Great Lakes Trail, leveled off the Park & Ride (since then a lot more fill has been put in there), Jim Barnett will take care of the new fill; more ditching was done on the Coley Trail; Horseshoe Pond to Horseshoe Valley was also ditched, with some water bars put in and widened for the groomer this winter; access to Cochran Road from Farmers Hill was closed off and several culverts taken out. This was necessary as trucks were coming in and destroying the trail system. We had tried a cable and then a gate; both were destroyed, so now there will be no access. The other trail was the one behind Mills Market. This work was done by Richard Pelletier. Great job, Ken and Richard!

We are hoping that next year more people will grab one of the rock rakes and work on a trail; we got a little slack this year, even though a lot was accomplished on the trail system. We thank all of you that helped make our trails great.

The Ellis River Riders have given us a $200 donation for the use of our trails. Thank you, guys. We heard through the grapevine that the Horseback Riding Across America wants to return next year. Congratulations to all that brought them here in the first place.

We have also received a donation from Albert Ladd of $25, and a bag of coated seed

HALLOWEEN ON THE SLOPES

Sunday River Ski Resort became the first ski area to provide lift serviced skiing and riding in eastern North America for the 2007-2008 ski season Wednesday. Skiing was offered Wednesday only, and open terrain was for advanced skiers and riders only. Sunday River is projected to open for the season Nov. 9. Lift tickets on Halloween were $25 for all ages, but skiers and riders who brought three cans of food paid $15 as part of the Tin Mountain Round-Up to support local food banks. Snowmaking took place on T2, Cascades, Sunday Punch and Jim's Whim.

from Ken. Thank you both.

The club has finally decided on what to do for the landowners. We have a committee to make up Christmas baskets for them. If any member would like to donate something, money or something for the basket, you can contact Wanda Worthley at 545-2715 or drop off at 1162 Roxbury Notch Road, Roxbury, ME 04275. This all needs to be done as soon as possible. Thank you in advance for your help.

If anyone knows of a business that would like a business card size ad on our maps for $50 per year, please let us know. This would be as soon as possible, as we would like to work on the map this winter so it can be ready the first of the year. All your help is appreciated.

These maps are selling very well, and we have donated a large vinyl one to the Roxbury Fire Department and one to the Andover Fire Department. They were really appreciated.

We had our elections: president, Mike Worthley; vice president, Klaus True; secretary, Jane Ryerson; treasurer, Jane Ryerson; Board of Directors: William Morse, Victor Peterson, Erland Waterhouse, David Sinclair, Craig Ryerson, Albert Chartier, John Houy, Kathleen Ferreria, and chairman of the Board, Klaus True. We also elected a director and alternate to ATV Maine: Victor Peterson and Adam Ferreria.

Our annual 50/50 will start the first of the year. We will mail tickets out in January. If you do not want to sell them, you can let us know before January and we will not send any. The money we make from the 50/50 goes right into the trials or the equipment fund, so this is everyone's way of helping on the trails. Please show your support.

The club will be buying five books of tickets from Roxbury Fire Department and five books of tickets from River Valley Riders Club. These are both 50/50, and if the club wins, the money will go to the equipment fund.

The club will once again go to the Sportsman's Shows.

Victor Peterson has the ok and blessing of the club to build a pavilion at Grimaldi Field for the town of Andover to enjoy. This is a thank you for letting us use the town roads.

Tim Canwell presented the club with a Letter of Appreciation for our support of the troops in the "Touch of Home" program. We can further the support by remembering all the troops in our prayers.

Roxbury ATV Riders are hosting the ATV Maine meeting on Dec. 8. Jane Ryerson and brother, James Lowe, will be cooking the meal for this. They could use help, so if available, please contact Jane at 824-2613. Everyone is welcome to attend the meeting. It begins at 9 a.m. and ends at 2 p.m. at the Town Hall in Andover. Victor Peterson has made and donated a beautiful full-length mirror to raffle off at the meeting. Thank you, Victor. There will be a short ride after the meeting depending on the weather.

We have decided to have a Christmas party after the ATV Maine meeting. This will be from 4 to 8 p.m. at the home of Mike Worthley. Please bring a dish and your favorite beverage. For more information, call Mike at 545-2715. Hope to see you there.

Winners at the meeting were: Dick Daniel (50/50) $30, which was donated back to the club (Thank you, Dick!); fall basket of goodies, Paul Smith, who gave the basket to Kathy Ferreira; an ice trap, donated by Ellis Pond Variety, Roger McGuire, who traded for a shirt, and Allen Bodwell got the ice trap; cooler of goodies, Jean Chartier. A Christmas-in-July shirt was given to all members present.

The Club would like to apologize and thank Dennis Daniel, owner of Ellis Pond Variety Store, for underwriting all the expenses of the The Donald E. Ryerson Memorial Poker Run, held Sunday, Sept. 2, 2007.

Dennis supports our club with many donations throughout the year and we appreciate all his support to the Roxbury ATV Riders.

Thank you Dennis and Crew.

Our next meeting will be in March. We will give you a date when we send out the tickets, and it will be on the website. Have a great winter, and if you ride a snowmobile, please join a club. This helps maintain the trails you love to ride on.

Special thanks to all our landowners and supporting businesses that have supported us throughout the year. Without you all, we would not have a club like we have. Merry Christmas and Happy New Year!

From
Bethel Historical Society's Regional History Center

The final lecture of the 2007 series, "Maine Character and Characters," will conclude with a presentation on Thursday, Nov. 8, by Society Executive Director Stanley R. Howe on the life and times of a Bethel "character," Elizabeth Mason Carter, who lived nearly a century until 2006.

Born at Willow Grove Farm (today known as Sunset Farm on Intervale Road) in 1907, she attended the local schools and was valedictorian of the Gould Academy Class of 1926. Always claiming to have been the first woman from Bethel to attend the University of Maine, she entered the Land Grant College in 1926 and graduated from a pre-med program in 1930. As a result of the Great Depression, she was unable to continue her medical education and became a social worker in a number of cities, including Portland and Bangor, as well as Manchester, N.H. During World War II, she served in USO Travelers Aid units in several states on the East and West coasts. Following the war she became community relations manager for the Maine Publicity Bureau, thus beginning her great familiarity with her native state.

After a brief career in the insurance business, she returned to social work and continued in that field until her retirement. During her retirement years, she was active in assisting with the founding of the Bethel Historical Society and the Kimball Family Association. She was particularly fond of animals all her life, especially horses, dogs and most emphatically cats. Society Director Howe will discuss the life of this remarkably long-lived woman of whom many who knew her would continue to recall as a "most unforgettable character." The lecture will begin at 7:30 p.m. in the Dr. Moses Mason House meeting room. The lecture is free and everyone is welcome.

Valuation Day

Don't miss this opportunity to learn something about the value of an antique or collectible at the Valuation Day offered by the Bethel Historical Society on Saturday, Nov. 10, at the Society's O'Neil Robinson House from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. For a $5 donation to the society, Jay Boschetti of Steam Mill Antiques will provide a value for one or two items per person. Boschetti has been involved in this field for much of his life and operates a successful business just west of Bethel Hill on U.S. Route 2.

Those possessing an antique or collectible item for which they would like further information such as its purpose, background, and/or monetary value are urged to attend this special opportunity offered by the society in cooperation with Mr. Boschetti.

From
The Society of Colonial Wars and Order of Founders and Patriots in Maine

Three Veterans of WWII, were honored last Saturday at a joint meeting of the Society of Colonial Wars in Maine and the Order of Founders and Patriots of the Maine Society.

Nearly 40 people gathered at the Bethel Historical Society Oct. 27, Navy Day, to recognize three Bethel men for their service in WWII, and their continuing contributions to the community.

The members of the SCW and OFPA recognized Emerson Clough of West Bethel, WWII Army of the United States Veteran; Henry Robertson of Bethel Village, Army of the United States, Pearl Harbor survivor; and Earlon "Bud" Paine, United States Navy. Each of these men in addition of their service to the Country during WWII, have played an important role in the community for many years.

Each were acknowledged and given a small token of appreciation. Henry Robertson, who was unable to attend was represented by his wife Betty and their daughter Jean.

The Order of Founders and Patriots in Maine presented a check to Bruce Pierce, a trustee of the Bethel Historical Society, to assist with the operation of the Bethel Historical Society. In past years the OFPA has also contributed to the printing costs of the society's Richardson Lakes history, and held a large reception in Bethel to honor the National Governor of the OFPA some years past.

Stephen T. Seames, Past Governor of the OFPA, was the officer of the day. Seames spoke about the Bethel Historical Society and its ongoing project to add a new museum facility to the society's Robinson House. He also spoke about our honored guests. Cmdr. Harry W. Kinsley, Jr. USN (Ret.) was the speaker of the day.

Following the formal portion of the program, the attendees were presented a sumptuous repast catered by Rooster's Roadhouse of Mayville.

Out-of-town guests (many staying at Ruth Grover's Village Motel) were Joseph William Pepperrell Frost and daughter Elizabeth of Eliot; Cmdr. and Mrs. Harry W. Kinsley, Jr. of Limerick; Mr. and Mrs. Kenneth Millard Hills, Society of Colonial Wars of Massachusetts, Past National Governor OFPA; Robert Vivian of Wells; Rev. W. Ramsey Richardson, Deputy Governor

Virginia Society of Colonial Wars; Mrs. Emily Richardson, Charlottesville, Va.; Compatriot Geoffrey Colby Vermont Society SAR.

Several of the out-of-town guests stayed for the weekend in Bethel and attended West Parish Congregational Church together on Sunday. It is hoped that the two organizations will return in the fall of 2008.

The SCW and OFPA wish to thank Randy Bennett and Danna Brown Nickerson of the Bethel Historical Society staff for their assistance in the planning and hosting of the meeting.

Oxford County 4-H Program

The Oxford County 4-H Program is holding its annual Take-A-Chance Auction this year on Nov. 30 and, once again, volunteer leaders and 4-H members will be asking businesses for their support of 4-H in Oxford County. Money raised will be used to support county programs, which help members learn leadership, career exploration, self-esteem, and many other important life skills.

If you would like to support the youth in Oxford County and no leader or 4-H member contacts you, please call the Oxford County Extension office at 743-6329 or (800) 287-1482 and a leader or 4-H'er will call on you. You don't have to be a business to help the 4-H program in this fundraiser; individuals are welcome to donate items as well as join in on the fun on Nov. 30 at the Oxford Hills Middle School on Pine Street in South Paris. Doors open at 5 p.m. with the drawing starting at 7 p.m.

Maine Handicapped Skiing

The Don Campbell Band, voted the top country/rock band in Maine four years in a row, is putting on a benefit concert to support Veterans/No Boundaries, an adaptive sports program for veterans and active-duty service personnel with physical disabilities conducted by Maine Handicapped Skiing.

The concert will be held Saturday, Nov. 10, at 8 p.m. in the Gold Room at the Portland Sports Complex at 512 Warren Avenue, Portland.

Tickets are $15 per person and can be purchased by calling ahead at (800) 639-7770 or at the door on the night of the concert.

Veterans/No Boundaries provides adaptive sports lessons to veterans and active-duty service personnel both winter and summer. In 2008, MHS will conduct their 3rd annual Veterans/No Boundaries winter program, Jan. 31 through Feb. 4, where veterans will learn to alpine and Nordic ski, snowboard and snowshoe at Sunday River Ski Resort and Sunday River Inn and Cross Country Ski Center. The lessons, equipment, meals and entertainment are provided free along with discounted lodging.

Participants are encouraged to invite their spouse or significant other to take part in the winter program too, making the weekend a family affair.

Veterans/No Boundaries is supported by a grant from Bath Iron Works and donations from businesses and individuals throughout Maine who support our service men and women with physical disabilities.

For details on the benefit dance hosted by the Don Campbell Band, please go to www.doncampbellmusic.com at Schedules and Calendar, Nov. 10, or call Maine Handicapped Skiing at (800) 639-7770.

Volunteer

Passionate about skiing or snowboarding? Volunteer at Maine Handicapped Skiing.

Looking for great skiing or riding, new friends and a way to help others? Maine Handicapped Skiing can offer all that and more.

Volunteers are needed to teach adaptive Alpine and Nordic skiing, snowboarding and snowshoeing to over 250 adults and children with physical disabilities this coming winter.

Maine Handicapped Skiing (MHS), Maine's largest year-round adaptive recreation program, is entering its 26th year of operation. MHS provides standard and adaptive ski equipment, warm winter clothing when needed and specially-trained volunteer instructors to work with children and adults with physical disabilities so they can become independent skiers and snowboarders.

Each year over 390 dedicated people volunteer at Maine Handicapped Skiing. MHS is always looking for interested people who want to share their love of skiing and riding and help others find the same joy in their winter outdoor pursuits.

To qualify as a skiing or riding volunteer, you must be at least 18 years old, be an intermediate skier or rider and have your own ski equipment with indemnifiable bindings or snowboard.

In addition, volunteers are required to take three days of training in November and December and volunteer 10 days as an instructor during the MHS season from Jan. 2 through the end of March. Volunteers ski for free when volunteering and for each day contributed to instructing, they receive a complimentary lift/trail pass at one of three MHS locations: Sunday River Ski Resort, Sunday River Inn and Cross Country Ski Center or Sugarloaf.

During Maine Handicapped Skiing's winter season, MHS offers alpine skiing and snowboarding lessons Sunday through Friday at Sunday River Ski Resort and Nordic skiing and snowshoeing lessons at Sunday River Inn and Cross Country Ski Center Wednesdays and Fridays. Sugarloaf offers alpine skiing and snowboarding lessons on the weekends and Nordic skiing and snowshoeing lessons are available on Thursdays at Pineland Farms, New Gloucester.

If you would like to be involved with Maine Handicapped Skiing, but don't ski or ride we have a place for you. Snowmobile drivers are needed to transport participants to different parts of the mountain throughout the day. Photographers and videographers help document the day-to-day excitement of Maine Handicapped Skiing. Indoor volunteers assist with daily program activities, including answering the phone, helping our participants and volunteers and assisting with general office tasks.

Maine Handicapped Skiing also has a Junior Volunteer program for teens, ages 16 and 17.

Junior volunteers learn about the many types of physical disabilities served at MHS and are instructed in numerous adaptive on-snow techniques in preparation for becoming a full-fledged volunteer at age 18.

Make this your year to do something really great for yourself and someone else; volunteer at Maine Handicapped Skiing! For information on becoming a volunteer call (800) 639-7770, fax us at (207) 824-0453; e-mail Judy Sullivan, program director, at jsullivan@skimhs.org or check out our website at www.skimhs.org.

From Maine Veterans Home

As hard as it is to imagine, the holiday season is fast approaching us. With the warm temperatures looming in late October, it makes one feel that Christmas is many months away. The annual Tree of Caring event is once again underway at the Maine Veterans' Home in South Paris. This project is sponsored by the Western Maine Veterans Advisory Committee, (WMVAC).

Bulbs can be purchased for $5 each, and can be in honor of someone or in memory of that person. All proceeds from the Tree of Caring directly support the activities and special needs of the residents of MVH. Supporting the activities program is the sole mission of WMVAC.

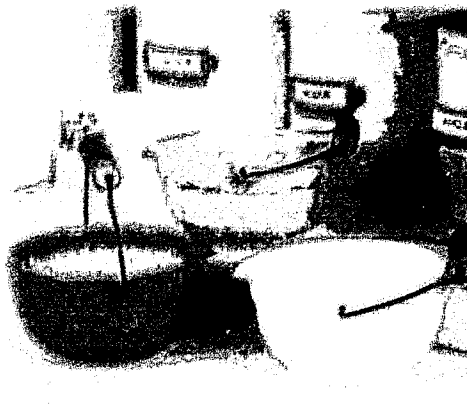

A listing of those persons the bulbs have been purchased for is displayed in the lobby of the facility from Thanksgiving through New Year's Day. The official lighting of the tree will be held on Friday, Dec. 7, at the home at 7 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

Bulbs can be purchased for $5 each at the home or by mailing your donation and information to Richard Young, 159 Paris Hill Road, South Paris, ME. 04281. For more information, call the facility at 743-6300.

From Western Maine University and Community College Center

Students wishing to enroll in January term university courses can register through WMUCC beginning Nov. 8. Students already enrolled in degree programs can select their courses a few days earlier, on Nov. 5. Most courses will begin the week of Jan. 14, 2008.

Each semester, WMUCC offers local access to hundreds of courses from the seven universities of the University of Maine System. Courses are taught by faculty on-site, online, and via interactive television (ITV) and video conference.

At WMUCC and at the ITV site in Telstar High School in Bethel, students can take courses leading to associate, bachelor's, and master's degrees in a variety of disciplines, including business administration, mental health and human services, financial services, library and information services, nursing, and more.

To fit the busy lives of most working adults, the universities offer flexible schedules and course delivery options, including a growing number of online courses. In addition to university courses, WMUCC offers personalized support for students, particularly to those beginning college for the first time.

Staff help students apply for financial aid, navigate online courses, apply for admission to a degree program, register for classes, order textbooks, and much more.

To learn more about Spring 2008 semester courses available through WMUCC, call 743-9322 or visit www.learn.maine.edu/southparis.

University College, part of the University of Maine System since 1989, provides statewide access to courses, degrees and support services for those who cannot pursue studies on a University of Maine System campus.

HALLOWEEN PARADE
Crecent Park Elementary School pupils marched in their annual Halloween parade up Main Street and through the North-east Bank Wednesday. They followed the yellow brick road through the bank, where employees dressed as Wizard of Oz characters passed out candy.

REAL ESTATE AND YOU

FIRST IMPRESSIONS COUNT

First impressions count! Do you remember your first impressions of your present home? What made you want to buy it? The features or amenities that first impressed you are probably the same ones that will sell your home.

When preparing your home to sell, try to emphasize the unique features that are especially attractive and would make a good first impression on prospective buyers. Highlight unusual architectural features such as bay windows or gazebos with freshly painted trim. Landscaping with trees or flowering shrubs can soften structural lines, or call attention to a beautiful entrance. Whether your home is modern or traditional, the approach to your home makes a statement.

Since most buyers are looking for a home that displays both charm and refinement, it pays to keep your grounds well maintained and attractive. If the exterior appearance of your home and yard is pleasing, buyers will want to see the interior.

For professional advice on all aspects of buying or selling real estate, contact Cindy Hiebert at Mahoosuc Realty, 207-824-2771

She was a member of the Gorham Historical Society, the Gorham Women's Club and the Gorham Methodist Church. She was a loving mother who enjoyed traveling with her family. She was an excellent cook and was known for her cookies. She enjoyed spending time with her friends at McDonald's and was an avid Boston Red Sox fan.

RUTH 'VICKIE' COUTURE
Ruth (Vickie) Couture went home to be with her Lord and Savior on Oct. 29, 2007.
She was born the daughter of Ruby Ellingwood. Vickie was brought up in Rockwood surrounded by her loving Aunt and Uncle Laura and Bert Calder, her Mom and siblings. Just before she turned eight her Mom died and she and her sister were placed in Foster Care in Skowhegan.
Vickie was a determined, independent, brave and courageous woman. She married Clement (Cut) Couture and had four children. She raised her family in her beloved town of Hanover. In 1959, the house she was living burned and although she lost all of her possessions, she claimed she lost nothing because she got her children out safely. Determined to remain in Hanover, she immediately sought out a new home for her family. She loved her little red house on the hill. She could be seen walking up to Howard Pond, or down to Howe's Store to get her paper.

Vickie always said that busy hands are happy hands and she kept her hands busy working at The Trail's End Motel for her very special friends, Al and Freda Larriviere. She would ride her bike to and from work, and every other Saturday up to Bethel to see her daughter Celina. She stopped riding her bike in her seventies after she fell off it and broke her leg, although she claimed she stopped riding because "the tires needed air."
Vickie never had the opportunity to travel much, but she traveled all over the world and beyond because of her love of reading. She also was accomplished in knitting, crocheting, and sewing.
She is survived by her children, Mrs. Angelo (Claudia) Nardone, Jr., Adrienne Gallant and Spencer Couture and his wife Linda; eight grandchildren; and eleven great-grandchildren, the youngest of whom arrived the day before Vickie left this earth.
Awaiting her arrival in heaven are her mother, Ruby, her daughter, Celina, and her great-granddaughter, Angelina Nardone.

The family wishes to thank the staff at Rumford Community Home for their excellent and loving care, and the staff of CMMC for making her last hours comfortable.

In Memory of Irene Leonard on her Birthday, November 2

We sat beside your bedside, our hearts were crushed and sore,
We did our best to the end, till we could do no more.
In tears we watched you sinking, we watched you fade away;
And though our hearts were breaking, We knew you could not stay.
You left behind some aching hearts, that loved you most sincere;
We never shall and never will forget you Mother dear.

In Memory

Herb,
To our best man. Miss you!
